

Iron Maiden - Somewhere In The Cold - Jan 8, 1987

Capital Centre, 1 Harry S. Truman Dr., Landover, MD, USA

This concert was the second North America show of the Somewhere On Tour in 1987, and is one of the better recordings of this era. Yngwie Malmsteen opened up for Iron Maiden in the United States. The venue is located in Landover, but often is referred to as the bordering city of Largo.

The remastering work included the cleaning up some pops, dropouts, crackles, and other analog defects. The varying volume level has been normalized towards a constant level and amplified over two times the initial level. Moreover, the right audio channel has been adjusted to almost double the original level to match the left audio channel for balancing. Feedback has been removed or reduced. The repeated beginning portion of "The Children Of The Damned" has been removed. An additional track of "Band Credits" has been separated from the song "Running Free". Lastly, CD-Text information was added, crowd noise was edited with fading, and the tracks have been re-indexed while trying to maintain the original feel.

Hopefully, you will enjoy this recording as much as I have. Feel free to distribute, but DO NOT charge any monetary amount for it. This recording should remain free for the fans.
